RECEPTIONS.

We are authorized to announce that the indies of the Executive Mansion, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Stover, will be home on Monday evenings. The crening has been fixed in lieu of the afternoon receptions, as they were last season.

Mas. SECRETARY WRLESS will hold her usual Wednesday receptions from 1 to 4 p.

STRAKER COLPAR'S weekly receptions will continue till the last Priday in March.

The receptions of the Speaker's mother and sister, Mrs. and Miss. Matthews, for ladles, and gentlemen accompanying them, will be every Wednesday afternoon, from 1 to 4 p. m. Residence, 7 Lafayette Square, Sixteen-and-a-half street.

It must be confessed that enterprise in the gathering and publication of the latest news by the journals of the country is to be commended. But it not unfrequently happens, especially in times like these, that what is given to the publication of unfounced rumors have no other effect than to keep alive undue excitement in the community, which tends only to mischierous ends. It has been declared about the hotels and public places of resort in the sity that eight Senators belonging to the dominant party will vote against impeachment, and this statement has been telegraphed to the Northern papers, and will doubbless, for a time, misicad many people. Now, we do not say that this is not so; but we do say that whether there be eight Senators or eighteen Senators or eighteen Senators who will cast their votes against the articles of impeachment after the testimony and arguments for and against impeachment after though with the statement of the nation nobody knows, and we emphatically affirm nobody can know anything about how a single member of that body will vote. To be aure, we can guess, we can conjecture, we can guess, we can conjecture, we can guess, we can conjecture, we can specualate. We can talk of this and that Senator's political antecedents, and infer what we please from such premises, but has any Senator political antecedents, and infer what we lease from such premises, but has any Senator nade public what his vote will be on this grave made public what his vote will be on this grave questiont. We think not.

When the Senate of the United States shall have, in conformity with the Constitution, re-solved itself into the high tribunal, with the Chief Justice presiding, which the Constitution recognizes it to be, when called upon to sit in judg-ment upon the conduct of the Chief Magistrate of this great nation, it then ceases to be a legislative body. It are longers forum for publical dis-It is no longer a forum for political dis cussion, but a grave, dignified, and solemn court, whose duty it is to weigh testimony, to consider constitutional. and legal arguments, and to give its decisions, not like a town meeting, or a political eautus. The Court will have before it the ten articles of the House, or grand jury impeaching Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, and after a patient hearing and investigation of all the testimony, and all the arguments bearing upon the question before them, from both sides, the final duty of the Court will be to decide whether them articles are sustained. oc to decide whether these articles are sustained, and if sustained, whether the said Andrew John-and if sustained, whether the said Andrew Johnson is guilty of the commission of high crimes and mindemeanors within the meaning of the law said the Constitution.

Far be it from us at this time to predict what will be the vertice of this High Court. Neither do we intend to give an opinion as to whatought to be the decision of the court. We hold that this question of impeachment is now taken from the areas of party politics, and it should not therefore be determined in the interests noy in accordance with the wishes of mere partissan on

Pedestrianism Under Difficulties.

Pedestrianism Under Difficulties.
It was a fearful time for all who had to be abroad last night. A florm of sleet and rain with fearfully slippery sidowalks ruled the hours, and to add to the troubles which all pedestrians had to content against, was the shameful and inexcussible neglect of our autional and municipal rulers in leaving the city in a state of utter darkness. We cannot find language to characterize in fitting terms the nigardly and welched policy which dooms the denizens of the national capital to suffer these things, while vast sums of morey are squandered upon objects, and sums of money are squandered upon objects, and for purposes that are comparatively of trifling

The Rules of Impeachment.

The discussion on adopting the rules for the government of the impeachment trial will be reserved toolsy in the Seaste. Mr. Howard will ask that the Senate continue in session until all the rules are finally disposed of.

The Conservative members of the Senate, it is understood, will make a determined opposition to the 20th and 21st rules, which are as follows:

A watch and diamond pin, the property of Clarke, was found in his possession. He says this affair was planned by his accomplice, the notorious James, before coming to this city. The plan was to murder and rob Clarke and then to destroy all evidence by burning the building.

It was well known that Clarke usually carried s large amount of money with him, and wors valuable dismonds. Clarke had a previous so valuable diamonds. Clarke had a previous ac-quaintance with James, and paid his bills during the few days they were waiting here to murder him. Friday evening was the first time he found Clarke alone. The deed was done with a small broad-ax. James attracted Clarke's attention while Charles slipped behind and atruck the mortal blow. Clarke's mistress entered the room soon after the murderers left, and gave the alarm.
